Frequently asked Questions:

What is the benefit for our institution? Your item might not be the best in it's class, but your curatorial acumen is embodied in the information provided upon sale or disposition. By allowing the chain of custody information to additionally reside with a neutral third party for no cost prior to sale, you are providing a service to the new owner vis a vis value optimization as well as helping to drive transparency in the art market at all levels. Additionally, your institution will receive free research rights when our valuation catalog (image, description, price, market sold in) comes on line and is free to use our logo (just request it by e-mail) if you sell directly.

Do we need to sign something to get started? Nope. Just sign up as a partner and ignore anything that is not relevant to your organization. You can also opt to e-mail us information.
